

JESUS!!!

The teaching of Jesus is the solid rock foundation of all that I know and believe. He taught me how to communicate with God; it is by his teaching that I can have his knowledge. And it is through his knowledge that mankind will learn of the way to a Godly kingdom on Earth.

The knowledge is in no way connected to my belief that the bloody Romans executed him for heresy. They then stole his knowledge and incorporated it into the development of an idol worshiping religion to stop people from learning what Jesus was really teaching. The religion would guarantee salvation to the properly subjected.

The knowledge that I got from Jesus is complete and in total in the way to communicate with God. That is what I have used to study the workings of Society from my diverse assortment of Life situations. The only salvation that mankind needs or will ever get will come through his coming together in the Mind of the Human to change the “direction” of Society.

Your and my beliefs about Christianity do not change the knowledge that Jesus had, believe what you want. The coming together of mankind will encompass all beliefs, Jesus taught of an all encompassing Love. Today Love is too complicated and tainted by lust and greed.

The coming together only needs a point, not beliefs or a complicated doctrine. A “common” point in the minds of mankind, a single word that is defined by the different beliefs, that is of a “common” thing will provide that point.
