

Jesus is Back, and He's Pissed!

That's a joke I've heard on a few different occasions.

Hell no it ain't me!!! I'm not even Jewish, I promise.

There is a similarity to what I'm presenting and the Bible prophesy simply stated, "a common man will teach of the way to a godly kingdom on Earth". That is the core of the prophesy and the only part that is real prophesy. Everything else is trying to explain it with the point of view of 2500 years ago.

Even more simply stated, "Someday somebody is going to figure out this mess". Someday was almost four years ago.

The solution has a lock on it, in your mind. Jesus is Back and He's Pissed is a good example of and most common (to my knowledge) as the lock in your mind.

It can be so deep that you will defeat Christianity in public debate, but still have the fear of the Messiah. It's no big deal, you can joke about it. It is such a tiny little thing that it can easily be covered in the conscious mind and not recognized in the sub-conscious mind. It is not of the conscious, conscious is of the physical world by the physical senses of the human animal.

The lock prevents you from acknowledging anything that would take you beyond the physical limits set by the "direction" of creation. The discovery of the universe and the discovery of atomic power ran into the same kind of lock.

The locks were on the expansion of the Human Mind. The big end was unlocked. And then the little end was unlocked 100 years ago by Albert. In the middle is here and now and the last lock on the physical world.

I have the key to unlock the limits of the Human mind, here and now. The lock is in your mind. It can totally block the understanding of the simple mechanism that will release it (the key). Not only does it block understanding, it will attack the bearer of "new knowledge" in defense of the limits it secures.

Whether it's attached to Jesus, death, hell or something simple like spiders, the lock that is there in your mind is the Fear of the Unknown. Whether it is disguised as a real reasonable fear, such as spiders or snakes, or a totally senseless imagined fear, the Fear has its prime purpose. It keeps you from going beyond the currently established limits to the physical world of the Human mind. My suggestion that we can go beyond the physical limits is not comprehensible.

You can intend to make an effort to understand but a fine line for true seeking is never crossed. The line is between; I don't understand this / explain this to me, I want to know / prove it to me, teach me / what do you know. And it's not the specific words, it's the attitude implied.

The latter in each case is the confrontational form, invoked by the Fear, which I always get. The latter gives you the resource to cancel anything that touches the Unknown. The former would be seeking to understand, opening the mind to forbidden territory.

You do have it. Everybody does have it. I have it. There is no escape from it. It is in the "direction" of Society.

This is no new discovery. The Fear of the Unknown or Primal Fear has been documented since the beginning studies of the mind of mankind. I'm explaining how I see it working and affecting what I'm trying to accomplish, in the hope that you will understand enough to consciously take control of it. Denying it is not controlling it, recognition and definition give you control.

I thought for a long time that I had gotten over it and was no longer subject to it. It took about three years after the BLiTTeR revelation to figure out it was still driving me.

First I had to come down from the rush of this incredible burst of knowledge in my brain. Then I began to realize that nobody could understand me. So I began seeking why with the light of the revelation. And found the answer to be the Fear of the Unknown.

I began understanding of it with the recognition of it in myself. I don't want to do what I'm doing. I'm sick and tired of being called a fool or a liar for trying to present a revolutionary idea. I could be living a really fun life on this little tropical island. But I'm driven by the Fear. Fear of failing all of mankind by not trying hard enough. Fear of alienating or not understanding someone and losing because of it. Fear of wasting time with someone and failing because of it.

By identifying the Fear I seek to overcome it and learn. Not recognizing it is acting in ignorance and being driven blindly.

If I am successful and change the "direction" of Society the Fear will metamorphous into Awe of the Unknown, Human potential without physical limits.
