

Persona Non Grata

A man of truth.

He tries with all his might to do no wrong, because if he does he must confess to it.

He will not submit to oppression by any authority that claims power over the human rights of a peaceful man who is doing no wrong, it would be a lie against nature. He is an outlaw.

He claims no friends by refusing to give one human being privilege over another, no bond or pact may sway the truth.

He is cursed by his choice to live without lies in a society of pretense, unacceptable, persona non grata.

He'll do you no offense but will not accept a lie; he won't acknowledge excuses offered for an abuse or neglect of Life. Accumulation of guilt feelings not excused makes some people uncomfortable, so he is labeled weird, arrogant or some other derogatory.

His concern for the "whole world" makes him immune to the common sore spots that are the daily occupation of others attention, his attention is at a different level and earns another label.

He's alright without a friend; he's in Love with Mankind. This is his mission for Life.
