

The BEAST

Ain't nuthin' but a bunch of radical 1s. But it really is a monster that we of the mankind must learn to control.

All of creation is a progression from an initial action in the perfect balance of pre-existence. Like the 0 & 1 of computer technology builds incredibly, the progression of creation builds from that action and its reaction, this is the Yin/Yang principle.

So, all of creation is explainable with 0s & 1s type progression, including the Beast.

The perfect balance of pre-existence still exists. The energy injected into it is constantly self balancing in a line of progression with the parameters that we know as the physical world. Everything, every life and every action is like the progression of 0s & 1s.

Perfectly balanced 0s & 1s is the rule of the physical world. The leading edge of the progression in the physical world is intelligence. Intelligence progressed to the point that it went beyond the parameters of the physical world and mankind got free will as the balance of higher intelligence. Mankind got the ability to act out of balance with the physical world because of the balancing of what we call the metaphysical or spiritual world of the higher intelligence.

The place in the man's mind where the free will works is the Bottom Line, where the decision is made to act. If the decision initiates an action that is out of balance, the balance is cast off into the metaphysical for the higher intelligence to deal with.

0s & 1s of creation's force are ejected from the physical world by man's free will. They are contained by the higher intelligence and are returned to the physical world to maintain the perfect balance. The creative force coming from the metaphysical world causes metaphysical actions. Miracles and Evil are the balancing of the creative force that man's free will upsets.

For this explanation 0s are good and 1s are bad. In reality they act together causing the metaphysical actions as dictated by the higher intelligence. The good and bad is relative to the idea of Karma, what goes around comes around, as ye sow so shall ye reap and payback's a muther. Mankind's greed and hate makes the radical 1s.

Our higher intelligence is being overwhelmed by the radical 1s. The Beast is a real thing that we constantly feed by acting without reference to the perfect balance.

We must, as all religions teach, learn to act with the perfect balance; they call it the guidance of God. Religion is made by free will; its imperfection is evident in the conflicts it creates. The way for mankind to come together with the intention of acting with the perfect balance is to have a "common" reference to what it is. The Feeling that all men have which is the driving force of all religions is the thing to make "common", it is Awareness of the perfect balance. A simple word, free from any belief of doctrine, referring to that Feeling will make it "common".

BLitTeR – "acknowledge the Feeling"