

This Fantastic Puzzle

Life, creation, existence, infinity micro and macro, Earth and the ever persistent “Why?” in the Human mind, the pieces number into infinity if you break them down all the way. But we of the man kind have a partial assembly that leaves us only a few thousand pieces to deal with.

It’s of little concern to most people. They have a pat answer to “Why?” that holds the construction of their world together. Those who will not accept the Unknown or God as the final answer to “Why?” are rare.

“Why?”

Progress.

That’s what it’s all about. No matter how far you break down the pieces they go back together by progressing. Action and reaction from the beginning of action is the reason for “here and now”. Like the power from the switch of a computer follows a path, “here and now” follows the path we call time, progress. Like input to the computer determines its product our actions determine here and now.

“Why?” Like the bright four year old pressing Granny to know what the doggies were doing.

“Direction”, progress has to have some place to go, the physical world is the “direction”. The action went that way. Again like the computer, the program determines what the input will produce, “direction” is the program of progress. We progress with “direction” within the parameters of the physical world.

“Why?”

Progress with the “direction” of the physical is creation in process. Existence has to be contained by “direction” to cause the interactions necessary for that process.

“Why?”

Progress to Master. The progress of intelligence (the leading edge of the process of creation) to control the physical world.

“Why?”

Progress of the “direction” beyond the containment of the physical world must be from a stable base.

The puzzle is the base; the pieces are the physical world. We have them all in place on the table but lack the cohesive link, the connection of the individual intelligences that form the pieces.

“Why?”

Progress of creation into the physical world developed specifics of action and reaction ignorant of each other. The leading edge of creation (intelligence) shows the effect in beliefs and languages that prevent the connection of our intelligence.

“Why?”

Progress to the right place and time, the progress of intelligence to “here and now”. Here we are, now let’s do it.

BLitTeR – “acknowledge the Feeling”

“Why?”

Because it will be good for your world.