

The Bad Connection

The absolute truth is what it's all about.

If you know Jesus at a place in your mind and you know it is the absolute truth, you've got it.

If you think Christian dogma is a fantasy story concocted to control the masses and have an "understanding" that the life of a human is a personal endeavor for the individual to attain their spiritual completion, you've got it too.

If you believe that nothing matters and Life is all there is, you also have a bad connection.

Anything that you hold up in your mind to be the absolute truth makes a bad connection.

The place in your mind where you know Jesus or have the understanding of Life is the same place. The place of understanding, the place where the absolute truth is known is the God Connection (GC).

Every individual has access to this place in the mind, some never go there. Those who do have unlimited different ways to get there, different ideas of what "there" is and different purposes for going there.

Absolute truth is spiritual understanding, the "knowing" of God. It is at the place in your conscious physical mind that connects to spiritual awareness, the GC. It is always there but most people are rarely conscious of it. Consciousness of it is in the unconsciousness of meditation. It is often described, "Like a light in your mind". All religions refer to it in one way or another. Jesus called it the secret place in your mind. Christians say it is Jesus.

It's not really a bad connection that people have, if it is connected or not determines life or not, we create interference. Any knowledge that comes from any source or time other than here and now that is given authority when seeking the truth at the GC causes interference. The absolute truth is and can only be "here and now"; it is not subject to any preconceived truth.

Extreme interference is evident in fanatics and idol worship, the power of truth is used to power personal ideas that have been given authority. The interference that they have established completely blocks the truth with answers to All questions, with previously dictated answers. Idolater or fanatic, object or doctrine cannot decide here and now with the spiritual power of truth, they might be right on occasion by odds.

The truth can be ugly and cause great pain. The negative effect is relative to the deceit that precedes the exposure of the truth or the act exposed.

The truth is an awesome power. We have the free will to use it any way we want. What happens with the extremes is that they take a bit of knowledge from a doctrine, confirm it as absolute truth and give the power to the doctrine. A devious person will tell a truth and then explain it "their way". Many great humanitarian things have come about because of men who stood for a truth. The truth remains true, even if defeated; ignorance is destroyed when truth wins. The truth is a tool to be used, not something to be defined for worship.

We've all got some degree of interference, it's natural, a part of Society's "direction". If one was completely free of any false truths and simply identified the GC as the God Connection that would be interference. Idol worship is common, whether a golden calf or Jesus in your mind it can produce good if the values attached to it are good. The problem is that no value, no matter how good and perfect it is here and now, can ever consider all the different possibilities that could come into being. The interference of the truth is a necessary ingredient of free will, so we can redirect the power of truth.

The bad connection, the interference is the "direction" of Society. It is the essential free will to look out for #1 by filtering the big picture truth. It is being driven by the absolute truth of the sanctity of Life, driven with the free will to do for you and yours by overruling the whole's natural balance. The sanctity of Life driving with self-concern is the force of creation. To have and possess for individual benefit is basic animal nature, access to the truth of the whole's concern is human, and can only exist along with Free Will.

The absolute truth is a jewel, the infinite all knowing perfection of God. Creation began with the shattering of that jewel, the pieces are the facts of creation. The facts of creation, the pieces of the jewel, have many facets. The pieces are common to religions and are dressed up according to the facet seen from a specific point of view.

The process of physical creation continues in Life and comes to completion with the Human as the master of all the fragments of the jewel. We have completed a process similar to when physical creation "sparked" Life. The physical elements were "sparked with awareness" of interactions that would produce life processes when the physical Earth was complete with all the pieces of the jewel in place.

The physical creation was complete, mastered. The Life process is complete, mastered; all the facets of the jewel have been recorded into the Awareness of Life that is our heritage from that original "spark". The reason for change is the same, it is so we can work together to go to the next level, Spiritual.

Awareness of completion common to all will trigger the change. Awareness of completion is at the GC, it is the Feeling of the perfect balance. To make it common there must be a world wide understanding, free of dogma, of a common reference to that Feeling.

We have been directed to use the power of creating in the physical world for sustaining Life, we have accomplished the goal. We can, from the dirt of the Earth, create and transport a life-sustaining environment to propagate the stars with Life. The creative force that is other than the perfect balance, "direction", must become subject to the "Awareness of the perfect balance". With this next step we will take physical creation by the means of Life into the realm of the Spiritual. As we learned to master the physical elements in Life, we will master the elements of Life with the Spiritual.
